

Do not weaken the Telephone privacy law!!!! Telemarketing is an imposition that we did not ask for or want. We can turn the channel when a commercial comes on our Television. We can block pop ups on our computers, why then do I have to get up from my dinner or out of the shower to answer the phone to talk to someone who I did not give my number to nor that I want calling me! It often borders on stalking, which is against the law. These people need to find another way to sell their products. Not to mention the serious difficulties we get into if they happen upon an elderly person with insecurities. My father is an Alzheimer patient. He will sit and talk to anyone about money because he is so paranoid about his income. He trusts anyone and will buy anything. Is this any different than robbery? A person getting his phone number that he does not know and telling him that he needs to send them money? Calling him by his first name, acting like they know him? I see serious problems with the aging population and the aggressiveness of telemarketing. If I want a product I will call them, or order it online.

Do NOT WEAKEN THE TELEPHONE PRIVACY LAW!

Suzanne Davis