

To whom it may concern: I am enjoying the phone I pay for with my own money when I want to use it and I do not have to wait on stupid telemarketers. The phone privacy act in Indiana works for us just fine. Please tell these financial institutions we do not want them calling us unless we request it personally. Leave Indiana's phone privacy act alone. The government (Supreme court's recent decision on personal property) is stepping all over people's rights too much. Respectfully, Kenneth W. Buchanon
