

I oppose industry efforts to weaken do-not-call protection. I believe calls should be allowed only when an individual provides explicit consent to receive calls from an organization. That means every bank or sporting goods shop needs to ask each of its customers for explicit permission -- requiring positive confirmation -- to call with solicitations.