

I am in support of removing the requirement for morse code to obtain an amateur radio license. I feel that the code is outdated and potentially is keeping some younger and/or interested people away from the hobby because of this outdated mode of communication. Although I have passed 12wpm code to obtain my license (KB9RNO) in 1999, I do not use the code and probably never will except with the assistance of the computer! There are lots of other digital modes that are just waiting for others to explore, but the code is keeping them away. END THE REQUIREMENT FOR MORSE CODE!
