

The right of communities: municipalities, counties and states to provide low-cost broadband for citizens must be preserved, maintained and encouraged. There is no inherent right for giant corporations to control the digital highways which constitute the landscape of free speech from this point forward, if we don't hand it to them. If all printing presses had been controlled by the British crown, Thomas Paine would never have been able to publish the Rights of Man.