

American citizens are not served well by media monopolies. Information of all kinds must continue to seep through to the public, and the only way that can happen is if companies are not tied to huge corporate giants. Any actions to keep the press free -- should I say, rather, RESTORE freedom to the press -- are essential in a democracy.