

Dear FCC, Plenty of airports have paid WI-FI that coexists with that as provided by airlines' clubs. The airport authority claim that WI-FI in the Continental club may interfere with law enforcement is a joke, and should be recognized as a total smokescreen. The airport authority is being greedy. The club should be able to provide whatever services they want to their members. If the airport needs more revenue, they should charge more for landing slots, or for rent of the club space, but to lie to nick the mostly business travelers is just WRONG!

david breslauer