

As a concerned American citizen, I sincerely oppose this proposal in the name of every American's constitutional right to personal privacy. There's no way for the average citizen to monitor how this proposed location information is used and/or abused, so it's best not to build this invasive monitoring infrastructure. Also, 911 should be a voluntary service, as many consumers have multiple phone service providers, and to require a mandatory 911 service would be redundant and tantamount to taxation. Please reconsider this proposal.
