

In this day of increasing concern for child safety, it is extremely comforting to be able to identify exact locations of our bus fleet with the use of GPS tracking systems. However, with the limited and strained school budgets, it is very difficult to find the funds to support this worthwhile technology. Federal funding of school bus tracking systems would be money well spent in support of the child safety goals. Thank you.