

The Morse code requirements are antiquated and have no real purpose. Technology has surpassed the need of Morse code. I think most of the CW band allocation should be used for voice and data. At any given time you can only find a handful of hams that are still using it, which is a shame since our band spectrum is getting tighter all the time. That and I think it would be a wonderful thing to see more new Ham's utilizing the precious band width that we have instead of impeding the use of the Armature Radio because of an out dated test.
