

Ham radio is a great source of emergency communications. To ruin it does not make any sense at all. In the 50 plus years that I have been a Ham, I found that anyone that was serious in getting a Amateur License was able to master 5 words of cw. So I beg you don't ruin a great hobby by making it another extension of CB. However I do agree that a non-cw entrance to Ham Radio might generate interest in Ham Radio, but I don't see the reason to grant full amateur privileges without some cw requirement? Thankyou! Mel Schneider K2KEY