Quality of Life

Meigs County is located in Southeast Tennessee and offers a mild climate. An abundance of lakes and rivers provide beauty and recreational opportunities. Mountains offer hiking and biking opportunities and wonderful views all year. Festivals and fairs are held year-round. Residents enjoy all types of sports and programs are available for all ages. Churches and faith-based organizations are strong in Meigs County, Tennessee and are of great importance to its residents.

The Watts Bar Dam and Lake offers spectacular fishing, boating, water skiing, camping, and hiking. The Tennessee Valley Authority's hydroelectric dam offers a visitor's center and tours. At one time, this location was unique in that three types of power generation methods were used at this site: coal-fired, hydroelectric, and nuclear.

The area is rich with history and tradition. The Meigs County Courthouse was built in 1904 and stands today at the intersection of highways 30 and 58. It is listed in the National Register of Historic Places and underwent an extensive renovation in 2004. Wonderful photo opportunities abound with an 1857 mill and homesite and an 1855 iron truss bridge.

Interstate 75 is within easy access to Meigs County and provides a short drive north to Knoxville and south to Chattanooga.
