

On 12/06/05 on Copper Mountain Cable Television, I watched the 10:00 pm news on ABC, Ch. 7.

1) The captions did not appear at the beginning. The news were running for almost 2 minutes before the captions appeared.

2) Several key words necessary for comprehension were spelled like nonsense words so that I could not understand what was said.

The above are examples of the poor quality in captioning that needs to be prevented and rules need to be established to prevent this.