

The Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I really disagree with this idea because I think that most young adults, like me, use trac fones the most, and by highering the price of airtime would make the tracfone company lose money in the process(Because it would become to expensive for young adults, who pay for airtime themselves, to keep these phones). No one wants to pay more taxes than already. So please take what the people have to say for once than what the FCC wants.

Thank you.

cc: FCC Chair Kevin Martin, Congress

Sincerely,

Patrick Wright
E9855 Hwy 58
Munising, Michigan 49862

cc:
Senator Carl Levin
Representative Bart Stupak
Senator Debbie Stabenow