

I support VOIP but believe the VOIP company should be considered a phone company separate from the cable company and the cable company's internet connection should be regulated as a separate public utility by a state.