

Regarding the 5WPM Morse Code requirement:

Like many amateur radio enthusiasts, I do not use code and do not plan to ever use code. Requiring successful completion of a code test to gain higher level of bandwidth access is not reasonable for those of us with no interest in a soon-to-be-antiquated technology.

It is as if a state Department of Motor Vehicles said, " You must pass a driving test to drive on surface roads, however, if you wish to drive on the freeway you must also pass a bicycle riding test"

I don't want to ride a bicycle on the freeway - I want to drive my car!
