

I would like the FCC to Please look into the show FAMILY GUY which airs on FOX TV. This animation is completely inappropriate for children to watch and yet because of its cartoon format is aimed at children. The themes of this show are extremely vulgar and even though children are portrayed in the animation the themes are very adult and beyond inappropriate for kids. Some have called it the "Howard Stern for kids" but I find it even more reprehensible because at least no children are portrayed in HS's show and it isn't in cartoon format. Many would say just don't let your kids watch it if you think it inappropriate, but many parents are fooled into thinking it is for kids because it is an animation and no information is out there on the airwaves to education them that the opposite is true. Also many parents just don't care and when they allow their kids to watch this show and these kids carry this over to other kids and "educate them" the way they were educated by this show. When you have 10 year olds talking about "3 ways" and "beaver" to your kids even though you don't allow such smut at your house, what control do you have over that? I know some parents say that much of the humor is over kid's heads anyway, so go with the flow. But it is only "over their heads" until it isn't anymore and their innocence is gone, and that isn't something that you can get back. Childhood is for such a short time, why do people that churn out this garbage take such joy in attacking it and profiting off it as well? It isn't just teenagers watching this show, it is kids whose ages are still in the single digits. This is wrong in possible way. I think everyone at the FCC should watch this show and form their own opinions and then please work at informing and educating the public of the dangers this show has to our children. Thankyou! A concerned parent
