

The analogie:

We all need to "get somewhere."

For those who can't afford to "get to work" as peasants for "the system." We have cabs and public city buses and subway trains.

We need to continue to fund "public and mass communication" by statute and law so that there will be savings, partiy, and equality and diversity of those who can get to work.

This will reduce "congestion" on the bandwidths and reduce the "parking and squatting" that happens inevitably...with questionable value for those "squatting" on bandwidth. I think of many webnames that are not used for years. I think of many "properties" that are bought and held or "sat on." Or, developed into one more duplicate franchise. (3 fast foods on a corner...three drug stores on a corner..instead of a less profitable restaurant for town ambiance)

WE NEED TO PARCEL out and have a master zoning plan...for a diverse...multifaceted..communication and info-entertainment...spectrum ... We have a rainbow for a reason...

homogynous black and white corporatism is not always the way...either in the red or black. No there are more colors.

The blue and yellow sometimes pays for the green.

Where not all oaks and pine trees...ther are a few birch stands...don't chop em.
