LIVING HERE

Hope is a quiet little town, in South Central Indiana. It is located in the middle of a triangle between Columbus, Shelbyville, and Greensburg.

Hope is 10 minutes from the Columbus Airport where you can land a helicopter, a DC-9 or a B-737.

We have an excellent Volunteer Fire Department combined with an Ambulance Service which is manned by qualified volunteers who, are professional Emergency Medical Technicians. The department has a fully equipped ambulance and is qualified to handle Advanced Life Support activities. Also they have a program for youth in the community called the Cadet Fireman Association.

Our Police Department works with the community to provide a safe environment for the residents and businesses in the community. We have three (3) full time police officers and eight (8) unpaid reserve officers, who not only protect our community but also participate in many community activities.

The school system has two grade schools, one of which was designed and built by Taft Architects, through the Cummins Foundation Architectural Fees Program.

The Flat Rock/Hawcreek School System offers a full range of educational opportunities and experiences for its student population. In a study conducted by Cinergy in 1996, the corporation was rated among the top 12 in Indiana for delivering the greatest program "bang" for the dollars spent. Hauser High School recently remodeled and added class rooms, a general purpose room, and upgrades of sports facilities. Last year Hauser had 47% of its senior class graduates with plans to attend various post secondary institutions.

An excellent vocational curriculum is also available through the Columbus Area C4 program.

Besides the local schools, we are also only ten minutes away from Indiana University Purdue University Columbus, Ivy Tech State College, and Indiana Business College all of which are located at Columbus Municipal Airport, as well as Indiana Wesleyan University, located in downtown Columbus. Other Colleges and Universities are within a forty-five minute drive from Hope. Hope Chamber has a committee which is working with the local school officials to develop working relationships between the school system and local business and industry.

The Flat Rock Hawcreek School Corporation is also involved in a major county-wide educational program. This program will provide a seamless educational process for all students. A new $24 million community Educational Facility is planned which will provide career counseling and technology for students and training for teachers. It will provide advanced state of the art technology to accomplish this goal. This facility will be located between the Ivy Tech facility and the IUPUC facility at the airport just a 10 minute drive from Hope.

A new 6,000 square foot, 20,000 volume, fully computerized branch of the Bartholomew County Library was designed and built by Deborah Berke of New York. The building's height and iron-spotted bricks establish a rapport with neighboring structures, yet the library remains a decidedly new building that confidently expresses its civic role.

Hope has a 75 acre Industrial Park with several industrial and commercial buildings. And another new addition that currently on the drawing board with plans to build within the next six months.

Although our industry is not large, it is diversified. Construction structural steel, trucking, meals for senior citizens, injection molding, construction and environmental clean-up, fixtures and special machines, hardwoods, seasonal plants, architectural panels, dust collector filters and blast cabinet gloves, and agriculture are a few of the representative companies.

Another important element in the growth and development of a community is the proximity of affordable housing. A subdivision of moderate priced housing in the $120,000 to $160,000 range is located in a beautiful wooded area south of the new Shopping Center. The first home built was on the Home Builders Home Show in 1998. During the 2000 Home Arama, over 800 people came to view the homes built in that subdivision. Currently under design is another addition which should be under construction by the first of the year. The Hope area population is about 6,000 and is made up of hardworking, industrious people who give a day's work for a day's pay.

We are fortunate to live close to excellent medical facilities. Twenty minutes to the west will get you to Columbus Regional Hospital which has a major Cancer Center and a Birthing Center. To the north is Shelbyville's Major Hospital and to the east is Greensburg's Decatur Memorial Hospital both of which have recently done major upgrades.

The Hope Chamber has a committee working with Miller's Merry Manor, and they are talking with Columbus Regional Hospital and local doctors in an effort to develop a local clinic in the Hope Area. Miller's Merry Manor is working hard on this project.

Two major banking institutions have branch operations in Hope. Irwin Union Bank & Trust, a division of Irwin Financial, has seven (7) branches in Bartholomew County. The Hope branch opened in 1956. The Corporation has $1.7 billion in assets. Home Federal Savings Bank has five (5) branch offices in Bartholomew County. Its assets are $832 million.

Indiana State Highway 9 runs through the middle of town, and within a few minutes will lead you to I-65 to the west, I-70 and I-69 to the north, and I-74 to the north and east. Only State Highway 9 connects all of these major Interstate Highways within the State of Indiana.

Although all roads do not converge here we are at the center of, and accessible to, the major city complexes of Indianapolis, Cincinnati, and Louisville. Currently, just to the north of Hope, the State of Indiana is acquiring land to extend State Highway 252 from where it ends in Flat Rock, to State Highway 9. When this piece of road is completed, Hope will have a more direct access route to I65 to the west.

Infrastructure inside the Town of Hope continues to be a top priority of the Chamber and the Town Board Members. With the help of Chamber members, $250,000 was acquired through the Build Indiana Fund to reconstruct South Street which is the major thoroughfare leading to many commercial and industrial facilities. The $425,000 project was completed in the spring of 2000. This development was coordinated with the recent upgrade in the water system.

The Town of Hope completed a major upgrade of its water system in 1999. This included improvement of circulation, and delivery of water, as well as an increase in water pressure, and the construction of a new 300,000 gallon overhead water storage facility.

Our water is produced from wells; however, we also have an agreement with Eastern Bartholomew Water Corporation to supply additional water when necessary. We have an excellent water supply and backup. We believe these improvements in the water system will help lower insurance rates for our whole community. The Insurance Service Organization from the State of Indiana will come in and review the water system and the fire department. At this time new State Fire Ratings will be assigned

Other Public Utilities include electric service from Bartholomew County REMC and Cinergy, Vectron Engery, Ameritech Telephone Company, as well as a Municipal Sewage System and water system. The Town Board is currently in the process of renegotiating the Cable TV contracts, which has been in place for twenty (20) years. Recently fiber optic cable was installed and runs along both sides of State Road 9 through our Hope Community.

ARCHITECTURE IN THE COMMUNITY

Cummins Engine Company has a business presence in communities all over the world, however, a unique architecture program has only been implemented in Bartholomew County and Primarily in Columbus, Indiana, where it has been a source of pride for the Cummins Engine Company and the community. When the Cummins Engine Foundation began the program in 1957 with the construction of Lillian Schmitt Elementary School, the full architect fee for school design was paid. This program later expanded to include other public buildings including the Hope Library 1998 and the Hope Elementary School 1989.

The primary requirement for participation in the CEF architectural program is that the client must be a public agency in Bartholomew County and agree to choose from a list of four to six architects offered by CEF. The Hope Community, located in northeastern Bartholomew County has been fortunate to receive architectural funds for the Library and Elementary School. Irwin Union Bank also enhanced the community by adding a new branch bank building in 1958 and choosing from an international list of architects. This shows great commitment to the community of Hope.

These three building add to the wealth of older architecture in the community including the Moravian Church and the Methodist Church.

Hope Moravian Church

Hope was built by members of the Moravian community. From 1830 to 1836 land could only be owned by the Moravian Church and only rented by persons who were members of the Moravian Church.

The Methodist Church, Yellow Trails Museum, Band Stand, Rural Letter Carriers Museum

The Methodist Church has a history all its own with its Beautiful Stained glass windows and period architecture.

The Yellow Trails Museum will initiate you to the nearly 200 years of history of the Hope Community.

The Band Stand in the large Park area, was designed by David Dixon in 1981. Dixon was from Ball State University School of Architecture. The simple Band Stand is framed in steel with a 7 ½ Ton roof made of native lumber. The Band Stand will encourage you to take a stroll down memory lane as you walk past the Rural Letter Carriers Museum.

This building, located in the heart of the park, will remind you that Hope was the location of the first rural letter carrier service in the State of Indiana. It is well worth a drive, along Indiana State Highway 9, to this surprising little town of Hope, Indiana.

Hope Library

Deborah Berke & Associates
New York, New York
Deborah Berke, Principal Architect
Built in 1998

The Hope Library, located on the town square is a 6,000 square foot, 20,000 volume, fully computerized branch of the Bartholomew County Public Library.

The building's low height and iron-spotted bricks establish a rapport with neighboring structures, yet the library remains a decidedly new building that confidently expresses its civic role.

Irwin Union Bank & Trust Company (Hope Branch)

Harry Weese
Chicago, Illinois
Built in 1958

The rust-red brick branch bank building at Hope was designed to fit a village square Environment and features a glass clerestory, over which "floats" the roof of pyramidal wooden domes. The new bank was designed to resemble the old Hope State Bank building which was purchased by Irwin Union. And if you step across the street to the Gold Nugget Pawn Shop, inside you can still see the resemblance.

Hope Elementary School

Taft Architects
Houston, Texas
Built in 1989

The new elementary school on the out-skirts of Hope replaced the original town school, which at one time housed grades 1-12 in this northeastern Bartholomew County community. The center hallways is the "main street" of the building with large foyers at each end. It creates a mall-like appearance with classroom windows interspersed with masonry pillars.

The facility is located close to a park which utilized the remainder of the 29-acre site which was the first landscaping project funded by the foundation. An old one-room school building has been moved to the site as a reminder of the Hope community's rural past.
