

This would definitely benefit the health and welfare of the public. Many communities have grown beyond the coverage of the old "local" AM channels. Many communities do not have a 24-hour local service to warn of natural or man-made dangers (hazardous spills, etc.). This would be a great service to the safety of communities. It should be open to both broadcasters and non-broadcasters. Please don't penalize those with a proven record of service.