

In your consideration of current, pending, and future regulation of our airwaves, I ask that you consider removing regulation instead of adding more. The free-market system that the US has enjoyed since near its inception is only weakened by regulation. Its is strengthened and diversified when the government steps back and allows the market, and therefore the people, to decide on what they want. There is no more reponsive system than that.