

We need as little as possible government regulation of communication, internet, media, free speech, or anything for that matter. I do NOT want more regulation of anything. One day you will wake up and realize almost every part of your own life is regulated and it will be too late to do something to change it by then.