

As a tax payer I am against any regulations against the networks to provide less competition, I feel we have too many government regulations as it is, and the Media ownership issue should be left as it is. I like the idea of the amount of choices I have and if some companies decide to merge, at this time I don't think it's going to cause us with less choices in networks to view, especially with cable, satellite & now Fios choices to give the average person more channels to choose.

I also feel the FCC needs to let the AT&T/Bell South and Verizon/MCI Mergers to go through as they are setup now.

We have too many regulations in all of our government that prevents people to have choices and lower prices, these regulation costs end up getting passed down to us consumers and it's gotten out of control.
