

I am totally opposed to more government control - especially in the area of communications. More governmental control in the area of communications will further erode the First Amendment, so precious to maintaining a FREE society.

Government already has too much control, and could better serve the communications industry by removing some of the outdated laws they have already put into place in order to free up the competition (and thus CHOICE) for the American people.