

Allow people to send and receive information. Control under the disguise of protecting is still control.