

People should be afforded the opportunity to purchase the channels they would like to view. There are channels included in packages that are never watched. If a person could choose individual channels, then people would feel they are getting their monies worth, and not just wasting their money.