

Pease review the logic of restricting J2D emissions to 500Hz, thereby eliminating Factor 3 communications. This is the only effective way for cruising boats to communicate long distance under adverse conditions and will affect safety at sea.