In re: Closed Captioning and Video Description of Video Programming – Implementation of Section 305 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 – Video Programming Accessibility

CGB-CC-0460 – Opposition to the Petition for Exemption from Closed Captioning Requirements Filed by U.S. Media Concepts

Dear Ms. Dortch:

Telecommunications for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, Inc. (“TDI”), National Association for the Deaf (“NAD”), Deaf and Hard of Hearing Consumer Advocacy Network (“DHHCAN”), Hearing Loss Association of America (“HLAA”), Association of Late-Deafened Adults, Inc. (“ALDA”), American Association of People with Disabilities (“AAPD”), and California Coalition of Agencies Serving the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (“CCASDHH”) (collectively, “Commenters”) submit for filing in the above-captioned proceeding their opposition to the petition for exemption from the Commission’s closed captioning requirements filed by U.S. Media Concepts for its program “Cu Fleet Auto Show” (the “Petition”).

The following is a summary of pertinent program, financial, and other information provided in the Petition:

Motorcycle sales program. Claims “client advise that any increase in production, they would cease doing business with us”; 2-person operation and closed captioning “would be catastrophic to lively hood (sic)”; “all the info has to appear on the screen” including year, make, model, selling price, and how required payments are derived; “client also has a link to TDD services”; “no one in our market that offers this service in Wisconsin (other than one who does live events and is no longer taking on new clients)”; found closed captioning services in MD and CA; “some times have to produce a program and get it on the air in less then (sic) 24 hours”; quickest turn around time found is 3 days; “stations will not do it for us although the (sic) have the means and the devices.” Included correspondence and information about closed captioning; and letter from WDJT saying it is not responsible for paying for Petitioner’s CC.

The Petition does not meet the statutory requirements necessary to support an exemption from the closed captioning rules.¹ Commenters oppose grant of the Petition because Petitioner has provided insufficient information to demonstrate and/or for the Commission to determine that it meets the undue burden standard for granting the Petition. Commenters recommend that the Petitioner be given 180 days either to comply with the closed captioning rules or to re-apply with sufficient information to allow the Commission and the public to determine whether the Petitioner’s request meets the legal standard for granting a waiver.

In addition to claiming that compliance with the Commission’s closed captioning requirements would impose an undue burden on it, Petitioner may suggest, imply, or expressly claim that its programming qualifies for an exemption under Section 79.1(d)(4) of the Commission’s rules. For the reasons discussed below, Petitioner has failed to demonstrate that it qualifies for an exemption under this section of the Commission’s rules.

I. The Legal Standard for Granting a Petition for Exemption

Section 713 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (the “Act”), requires that video programming be closed captioned, regardless of distribution technologies, to ensure that it is accessible to persons with hearing disabilities.² The Commission has the authority to grant a petition for an exemption from the closed captioning requirements upon a showing that the requirements would impose an undue burden on the video programming provider or video owner.³ Congress defined “undue burden” to mean “significant difficulty or expense.”⁴

A petition seeking a waiver of the captioning rules must demonstrate that compliance would result in an undue burden within the meaning of Section 713(e) and Section 79.1(f) of the Commission’s rules.⁵ Section 713 requires the Commission to consider four factors when determining whether the closed captioning requirements will impose an undue burden: (1) the nature and cost of the closed captions for the programming; (2) the impact on the operation of the provider or program owner; (3) the financial resources of the provider or program owner; and (4) the type of operations of the provider or program owner.⁶

Section 79.1(f) of the Commission's rules sets forth the Commission's procedures for seeking an exemption from the closed captioning requirements on the basis that compliance would impose an undue burden on the programmer.⁷ A petition for an exemption from the closed captioning requirements must be supported by sufficient evidence to demonstrate that compliance with the requirements would cause an undue burden.⁸ Such petition must contain a detailed, full showing, supported by affidavit, of any facts or considerations relied on by the petitioner.⁹ It must also describe any available alternatives that might constitute a reasonable substitute for the captioning requirements.¹⁰

In the 2006 Anglers Exemption Order, the Consumer & Governmental Affairs Bureau ("CGB") improperly created a new standard that ignored the "undue burden" analysis required by the Act, the Commission's rules, and Commission precedent. Instead, the CGB stated that any non-profit organization may be granted a waiver from the closed captioning rules if the organization does not receive compensation for airing its programming and if it may terminate or substantially curtail its programming or other activities important to its mission if it is required to caption its programming.¹¹ The Commission may not properly rely on the Anglers Exemption Order to determine whether Petitioner's request meets the undue burden standard. Commenters have sought review of the Anglers Exemption Order by the Commission and, accordingly, the Anglers Exemption Order is not final.¹² Moreover, the standard announced by the CGB in the Anglers Exemption Order was inappropriate because it failed to incorporate an "economically burdensome" or an "undue burden" standard as mandated by the Act and fails to require Petitioner to demonstrate the four factors listed above.

II. Petitioner Has Presented Insufficient Information to Demonstrate or Determine that Compliance with the Captioning Requirement Would Impose an Undue Burden

Petitioner requests an exemption from the closed captioning requirements, asserting that compliance would impose an undue burden on Petitioner. However, the Petition offers insufficient evidence to demonstrate or determine that compliance would impose an undue burden under the four statutory exemption factors. The Petition therefore does not meet the legal standard for granting a request for exemption of the closed captioning rules and should be denied.

Commenters respectfully submit that the Petition is not supported by sufficient evidence to demonstrate that compliance with the closed captioning requirements would impose an undue burden upon Petitioner as required by the statutory factors set forth under Section 79.1(f)(2) of the Commission's rules.¹³

First factor: The nature and cost of the closed captions. In judging the sufficiency of information filed to support a claim that the cost of implementing closed captioning will impose an undue burden, the Commission looks to whether the petitioner:

- (1) sought competitive pricing from multiple sources;
- (2) submitted copies of the correspondence received from such captioning companies, indicating a range of quotes;
- (3) provided details regarding its financial resources; and
- (4) sought any means to recoup the cost of closed captioning, such as through grants or sponsorships.¹⁴

Moreover, the Commission has stated that petitioners must make an effort to solicit captioning assistance from the distributors of its programming.¹⁵ A ¹⁴ Outland Sports, Inc., Video Programming Accessibility, Petition for Waiver of Closed Captioning Requirements, 16 FCC Rcd 13605 (2001) (“Outland Sports”) (advising that entities seeking a waiver of the captioning requirements seek cost quotes from multiple sources and provide correspondence evidencing the quotes obtained, provide detailed financial information, and discuss whether any efforts were made to recoup the cost of closed captioning). See also The Wild Outdoors, Video Programming Accessibility, Petition for Waiver of Closed Captioning Requirements, 16 FCC Rcd 13611 (2001) (reviewing sufficiency of information provided with respect to the four factors).

petitioner must also provide the Commission the distributor's response to its solicitation.¹⁶ Failure to provide the foregoing information and to establish that the Petitioner pursued other possible means of gaining captioning hinders the Commission's assessment of the impact of the cost of captioning on Petitioner.¹⁷

Second factor: The impact on the operation of the provider or program owner. A petition must provide sufficient information to indicate that compliance with closed captioning requirements will adversely affect the Petitioner's operations.

Third factor: the financial resources of the provider or program owner. Commission rule 79.1(f)(2) provides that a petition for exemption "must be supported by sufficient evidence to demonstrate that compliance with the requirements would cause an undue burden."¹⁸ Additionally, in determining whether the closed captioning requirements impose an undue burden, the Commission must consider the resources that the petitioner has chosen to devote to the program in the context of the overall budget and revenues of the petitioner – and not merely the cost of captioning in relation to a particular program.¹⁹

Fourth factor: The type of operation of the provider or program owner. In order for the Commission to determine whether the Petition is supported under the fourth factor, Petitioner must provide detailed information regarding its operations and explain why or how complying with the closed captioning requirements would result in significant difficulty for Petitioner because of the type of operations involved.

Here, Petitioner has not provided sufficient financial information to determine whether an undue burden would result under the four factors above.

III. Petitioner does not Qualify for Self-Implementing Exemptions

Petitioner may suggest, imply, or claim that it qualifies for an exemption pursuant to Section 79.1(d)(4) of the Commission's rules. Section 79.1(d)(4) pertains to primarily textual programming.²⁰

Exemption Criteria Under Section 79.1(d)(4)

Petitioner may imply or claim that its type of video program is exempt from the closed captioning requirements pursuant to Section 79.1(d)(4) of the Commission's rules, which provides an exemption for primarily textual programming.²¹ The Commission rejected classifying several types of programming as primarily textual because "critical portions of the information conveyed is lost if captioning is absent."²² For example, the Commission determined that home shopping programming is not eligible for the exemption even though textual information is visually displayed about a product, quantity, price, and ordering information. Here, Petitioner's vehicle sales program may include related and/or required information displayed on screen in text, such as vehicle descriptions (i.e., year, make, model, stock number, and options), price and payment details (i.e., factory incentive, down payment, interest, scheduled payment amount and derivation), sales terms and conditions, disclaimers, and seller's information (i.e., name, address, phone number, and/or website address). Providing text or visual displays of what the seller believes to be core content, vital details, pertinent, important, or relevant information is not sufficient. Audio or voiceover information, sometimes characterized as "verbiage" or "banter" and often unscripted, ad lib, or improvised, provides commentary and information, and describes, supplements, or highlights features or details of visual displays such as pictures or video, which is not displayed on screen as text. Presentation of text and visuals can be designed to accommodate the inclusion of closed captions without blocking important visual information. Primarily textual programming exists only when everything the spokesperson says actually appears on screen as text. Therefore, Petitioner does not qualify for the exemption set forth in 79.1(d)(4) because the programming at issue is not primarily textual.

IV. Conclusion

For the reasons discussed above, Petitioner's request for exemption from the closed captioning requirements fails to demonstrate that compliance with the requirements would cause an undue burden within the meaning of Section 713 of the Act. Accordingly, it should be denied.
