

I am opposed to this change to 97.221 that allows automatically controlled digital signals to operate outside their current sub bands.

I feel that this is very unfair to the people who choose to operate using Morse code and RTTY. I realize that CW has been removed as a TESTING requirement however the ARRL has made a commitment to proceed with supporting the mode "Morse Code" and to still provide materials and study guides to practice and further the use of Morse Code. By allowing this proceeding to move into a state of "Normal Operations" goes against the very being and support that the ARRL has promised to provide our community of Amateur Radio Operators.
