

Considering the current media presented on radio today, there is no reason to not allow the XM and SIRI to merge so that the public can have good, intelligent radio at their disposal.