

I believe the process for bidding on the available spectrum should be done through anonymous bidding, as previously suggested by former FCC Chief Economist Leslie Marx. This will prevent larger companies from blocking bids from smaller companies, and will, in time, increase innovation and competitiveness. Also, I would like to state that the public safety spectrum should be increased as to allow for improvements in availability and reliability. Please consider your fellow countrymen when reviewing the rules regarding bidding and during the auction. Thank you for your time.
