

Dear Sirs,

I have been an XM Radio subscriber for 5 years. I am concerned that the proposed merger of XM and Sirius radio will substantially change the programming and content I specifically selected when I signed up for XM. A merged company will remove competition for customers. The merged company will have no incentive to improve content, add services, or control subscription prices. The merged company would be a true monopoly. Satellite radio provides content that commercial radio can not legally broadcast and as such can not be considered competition.

I would ask that you refuse to license a merged company and protect the consumers you represent.
