

Protect the Internet's Level Playing Field

The FCC must protect the fairness and neutrality of the Internet. It cannot allow the big telcos to dominate and thereby undermine the fairness and access to the Internet to average citizens.

As a fledgling entrepreneur, I rely on the Internet to reach potential customers, unencumbered. The direction in which the FCC is moving, will harm my ability to reach out to customers or anyone for that matter. I cannot compete with companies that have deep pockets, but the Internet reduces the barriers to entry and provides my business with fairness and open access.