

Internet Radio is popular because of the prices.

I love music, lots of different kinds from all over the world. And the only reason I can expose myself to all this different music is because of internet radio. Cds are a thing of the past, and sometimes music needs to be heard before being purchased. And speaking of money, I know myself and a lot of my friend will not pay for what is being proposed. I'll go back to my old tapes & cds, fm radio has nothing to offer for me. Internet radio is becoming so popular because of the price. Not everyone is rich.

Net Neutrality is essential to free speech, equal opportunity and economic innovation in America. Since the FCC removed this basic protection in 2005, the top executives of phone and cable companies have stated their intention to become the Internet's gatekeepers and to discriminate against Web sites that don't pay their added tolls.

This fundamental change would end the open Internet as we know it. It would damage my ability to connect with others, share information and participate in our 21st century democracy and economy. The FCC must ensure that broadband providers do not block, interfere with or discriminate against any lawful Internet traffic based on its ownership, source or destination.
