

A free Internet represents the American ideal

The Internet, as we have known it, is probably the most powerful demonstration of America at its best. Not at its capitalistic best, not at its most profit hungry, not as a nation that is caring less and less about democracy, but as America. The America that individual people from all over the globe still think of as the place where freedom is available to everyone. Profit-hungry, selfishly greedy, top-heavy corporations are trying to take it away.

Please don't let them.

The FCC must ensure that broadband providers do not block, interfere with or discriminate against any lawful Internet traffic based on its ownership, source or destination.