

The Airwaves Belong to US -- not YOU

The government must protect our airwaves from corporate gatekeepers who would stifle innovation and competition in the Internet market. To restore America's leadership in high speed Internet services, the FCC must ensure that the upcoming auction sets aside at least 30 MHz of spectrum for open and non-discriminatory Internet access. This will guarantee that new entrants have the opportunity to enter the market in competition with incumbent providers.

You must not further stifle competition in America by handing over these airwaves to the very same phone and cable companies that dominate the wireline market. This new wireless spectrum must be open and neutral so that more Americans can enjoy the benefits of high-speed Internet connections that preserve freedom of choice online.
