

FCC should be dismantled as obsolete!

The government must protect our airwaves from the same corporate gatekeepers that have stifled innovation and competition in Internet markets.

To restore America's leadership in high speed Internet services, the FCC must ensure that the upcoming auction sets aside at least 30 MHz of spectrum for open and non-discriminatory Internet access. This will guarantee that new entrants have the opportunity to enter the market in competition with incumbent providers.

It would be a big mistake to hand over these airwaves to the very same phone and cable companies that dominate the wireline market. We need more competition and innovation, not more of the same. This new wireless spectrum must be open and neutral so that America can build a better Internet for everyone. Selling our airspace to anyone is stupid! With big companies owning everything, next they'll be telling us we have to pay them a dollar for every big breath we take! NO!

And who are the leaders of the Federal Communication Co to sell ANYTHING that affects all of us?! They should be disposed of since they're obsolete!
