

Keep the Airwaves for the public

I am writing to urge the FCC to ensure that the upcoming auction sets aside at least 30 MHz of spectrum for open and non-discriminatory Internet access. This will guarantee that new entrants have the opportunity to enter the market in competition with incumbent providers.

The government must protect our airwaves from the same corporate gatekeepers that have stifled innovation and competition in Internet markets.

It does not make sense to hand over these airwaves to the very same phone and cable companies that dominate the wireline market. We need more competition and innovation, not more of the same. This new wireless spectrum must be open and neutral so that America can build a better Internet for everyone.
