

Protect our public airwaves and internet!!

The government needs to protect our airwaves from the same corporate gatekeepers that have recently stifled innovation and competition in Internet markets.

To restore America's leadership in high speed Internet services, the FCC needs to ensure that the upcoming auction sets aside at least 30 MHz of spectrum for open and non-discriminatory Internet access. This will guarantee that new entrants have the opportunity to enter the market in competition with incumbent providers.

It would be a big mistake to hand over these airwaves to the very same phone and cable companies that dominate the wireless market. We need more competition and innovation, not more of the same. This new wireless spectrum must be open and neutral so that America can build a better Internet for everyone. That is the true American way.
