

The internet belongs to the people. Big commercial interests ought not to control our ready access to it economically. Access ought to be simple, easy, and affordable for more people, not fewer. Keep the big commercial interests out of it.