

Handing over the public spectrum to those already stifling high speed access would be a huge mistake.

I personally do not have high speed access due to my distance from a city and I refuse to pay the outrageous fees needed for satellite access.

Do not hand over the keys to those already controlling who and at what price high speed access is made available.