

Keep the net neutral for entrepreneurs

Net Neutrality is essential to free speech, equal opportunity and economic innovation in America. Since the FCC removed this basic protection in 2005, the top executives of phone and cable companies have stated their intention to become the Internet's gatekeepers and to discriminate against Web sites that don't pay their added tolls.

My husband & I have invested some of retirement nest egg in his patent pending maritime hydrogen generation system which is a new global industry and we need access around the world. We don't need any gate keepers to hamper us! Check out www.windhunter.org and you will see that we have a marine structural engineer from Scotland volunteering for us and much interest from other countries in our project. We don't want to be fenced in so keep the playing field level please.

This fundamental change would end the open Internet as we know it. It would damage my ability to connect with others, share information and participate in our 21st century democracy and economy. The FCC must ensure that broadband providers do not block, interfere with or discriminate against any lawful Internet traffic based on its ownership, source or destination.
