

Please don't cap the Universal Service Fund for wireless providers.

I live in Oregon and often travel and vacation with my family in rural Oregon. Having cell service available in rural areas is necessary to allow travelers facing mechanical, medical, or other emergencies or requiring law enforcement assistance to obtain timely help.

Also, consistent cell service is necessary to rural Oregon, the least economically developed part of the state.

Less USF support for rural wireless networks will leave us with poor coverage, dropped calls and dangerous dead zones.

Thank you.
