

Keep democracy alive

I rely on the internet for my news. Corporate media shove their agendas, ie their favorite presidential candidate. I don't need to have someone tell me who to pick, and I don't appreciate insinuation that the talking heads speak for me. They don't.

The internet allows me to freely choose, to read about all sides of an issue without being shouted at in the privacy of my own home. It allows all speech to be voiced! I can look up any topic and learn about it. It's the poorman's encyclopedia.

Protect this last bastion of democracy!
