

Keep the internet FREE!

Net Neutrality is important to me because it is currently the only place in which it is easy to find a decenting voice. I feel that the FCC has forgotten its mission in protecting both the citizens and the businesses of this great country. To me, it seems the FCC has pursued a policy which has created a void in the dissemination of information and news. To me most of the main stream media sources are unable to provide unbiased news. Luckily the internet is now a place where that voice can now be found for those who seek it. I truly believe that allowing the internet to be influenced by corporations would be a detriment to our society. This medium for information is currently very democratic and a true example of a free market. please keep it that way.

thank you for your time,
Tandy Royal

Net Neutrality is essential to free speech, equal opportunity and economic innovation in America. Since the FCC removed this basic protection in 2005, the top executives of phone and cable companies have stated their intention to become the Internet's gatekeepers and to discriminate against Web sites that don't pay their added tolls.

This fundamental change would end the open Internet as we know it. It would damage my ability to connect with others, share information and participate in our 21st century democracy and economy. The FCC must ensure that broadband providers do not block, interfere with or discriminate against any lawful Internet traffic based on its ownership, source or destination.