

Dear FCC Commissioners: I favor the combination of XM & Sirius. By allowing the merger I believe the following will happen. 1. Lower prices and tiered packages will be available to consumers. 2. More choice as opposed to having to subscribe to both services to get all that I want to hear.

A fair competitive position - both XM and Sirius compete with FM (free), HD radio (free for now), IPODs - which are available with factory car connections now, MP3 players, cell phone music devices and others. Currently both companies experience intense competition from all of these services and even more competition is starting to reach cars.

Wi-fi, Wi-max, Slacker satellite delivered service all are getting into cars starting this year.

I am for this merger as it would give me more choice in my programming and more flexibility in pricing plans.

Respectfully,

Jeff
