

I support the merger of the two companies because a "monopoly" in the traditional sense of the word will not result afterwards. Consumers will have multiple mediums to choose from to obtain music. If a merger does not occur, a one company outcome is still possible as one of these two money losing companies will go out of business.