

Keep Freedom in the Internet-Keep My Dream Alive

Net Neutrality is such an important freedom to me. I've been building my own small online business for a while now, trying to bring make my dream a reality. I'm building something that someday I hope will allow me the financial and creative freedoms I need and desire.

The thought that all of my hard efforts, hopes, and dreams could be taken away by the actions of lobbyists and corporations would be truly devastating, not only to my dreams, but also to the other millions of other ordinary citizens who are trying to make their own dreams come true.

Please, hear our voices and speak up for us.

Don't let the corporations dictate what our dreams should be. Don't let the lobbyists dash the hopes that many people have for themselves and their small businesses.

Without equal access, the quality of my life would be greatly diminished. I depend on it daily to communicate, conduct work, learn, and stay connected.
