Dear Ms. Dortch,:

To whom it may concern,

I would like to weigh in on the Sirius-XM merger. I'm a Sirius subscriber and would like nothing more to have additional programs added to my service.

I do not understand what the debate is about? Is it about a monopoly? If so, I can guaranty if Sirius increases the base rate and decreases programming I will cancel my subscription. I'm paying for a premium product and if they decrease programming I will revert back to Terrestrial Radio, I-Pod, Cell Phone or Internet radio. Sirius is not the only game in town, just the only one I have to pay for.

I love Sirius's product but not at any cost. Sirius has major competition and I believe in letting the market dictate how companies do business. If Sirius has no competition why is the NAB fighting so hard?

Sincerely,

Aaron Sandner
