

TWIMC:

Net neutrality allows for customers to receive the services that they paid for, without having the provider choose what the customer gets. The whole point of the internet is to be able to share information with whomever we choose, with the least amount of interference from a corporate entity who WILL force their products on us.